Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurSo how did the human race finally face extinction, only to be resurrected 50,000 years later by a race of machines with a conscience and on a planet in a far distant corner of the galaxy?As the world became gripped by ever increasing terrorism and the use of the internet as a weapon, the CIA began work on the most controversial counter intelligence and defense project ever conceived to protect America. It took 15 years to complete and two presidents really thought it was the answer.How did they not see the dangers, or where it might lead? Only one man got close to the answer, but by that time it was too late to reverse what they'd done. So, as the human race paid the ultimate price, the machines finally took over, but had even they got it wrong? Who could have foreseen just how far the events of 9/11, over half a century earlier, would reverberate through time?
